While some reviewers had negative experiences with slow service and rude staff, others had wonderful meals and encounters with the owner, Peppe Gaspare. The food was described as outstanding, with a special mention of the homemade pasta. The restaurant's Italian atmosphere and top-notch service left guests feeling like they were back in Italy. Despite some minor issues with the wine list, overall, it was a memorable dining experience worth revisiting. Peppe Gaspare's personal touch and attention to detail truly set this place apart, making it a destination worth the trip from Antwerp.
